Suggested FaceBook Privacy Settings

Log in to Facebook - in the top right hand corner click on Account and choose Privacy Settings from the drop-down menu to get the following screen. Remember if you wouldn't want someone to see it, don't put it on FaceBook in the first place. You may want to restrict more than the minimum recommended in this guide.

The screenshot shows the Facebook Privacy Settings page. At the top, there is a search bar and navigation links for Home, Profile, Find friends, and Account. The main heading is "Choose your privacy settings". Below this, there are three sections: "Basic directory information", "Sharing on Facebook", and "Applications and websites".

Basic directory information: This section explains that basic information is open to everyone. A red circle highlights the "View settings" link, with a red "1" next to it.

Sharing on Facebook: This section contains a table with columns for "Everyone", "Friends of friends", "Friends only", and "Other". The "Custom" option is selected in the left-hand menu. A red circle highlights the "Customise settings" link at the bottom of the table, with a red "2" next to it.

Applications and websites: A red circle highlights this section, with a red "3" next to it.

Other sections visible include "Block lists" and "Controlling how you share". A "Chat (Offline)" button is in the bottom right corner.

1. Basic Directory Information

Click on View Settings

The screenshot shows the "Basic directory information" section of the Facebook Privacy Settings page. At the top, there are "Back to privacy" and "Preview my Profile" buttons. Below this, there is a paragraph explaining that name, profile picture, gender, and networks are always open to everyone. The rest of the settings are listed in a table:

Setting	Description	Current Setting
Search for me on Facebook	This lets friends find you on Facebook. If you're visible to fewer people, it may prevent you from connecting with your real world friends.	Everyone
Send me friend requests	This lets real world friends send you friend requests. If not set to everyone, it could prevent you from connecting with your friends.	Everyone
Send me messages	This lets friends you haven't connected with yet send you a message before adding you as a friend.	Everyone
See my friend list	This helps real world friends identify you by friends you have in common. Your friend list is always available to applications and your connections to friends may be visible elsewhere.	Everyone
See my education and work	This helps classmates and colleagues find you.	Friends only
See my current location and hometown	This helps friends you grew up with and friends near you confirm it's really you.	Everyone
See my interests and other Pages	This lets you connect with people with common interests based on things you like on and off Facebook.	Friends only

The above is the minimum recommended setting - enough for old friends to find you without giving too much away.

To change any setting click on the box to get a drop down menu

Note that you get a choice of Everyone, Friends of Friends, Friends Only and Customise.

Sometimes the setting you want isn't there (Friends Only often disappears)

Click on Customise to get this window

Then use the drop down box to choose from...

Friends Only, Specific People or Only Me

To be honest, if you use Only Me, the information really shouldn't be there in the first place, BUT it does stop accidents; so do it anyway!

Note that you can also block certain people from viewing certain things or only allow certain people to see things.

2. Sharing on Facebook

Click on Customise Settings

You will have to scroll down the page to see all these settings. Again these settings are the minimum recommended. Change them as above. Make them more restrictive if you prefer.

2a. Photo Album Privacy

Click on Edit album privacy

Every album must be done separately.

Under the FaceBook Terms & Conditions any public photo (i.e. in an album set to Everyone) can be used by FaceBook in any way they choose. Think carefully about your profile picture as you often want this to be public!

The screenshot shows the Facebook interface with the navigation bar at the top. The main content area is titled "Privacy > Photos" and includes the instruction "Control who sees each of your photo albums." Below this, three photo albums are listed with their respective privacy settings:

- Profile Pictures: Shows a parrot's head. The privacy setting is "Friends of friends" (indicated by a lock icon and a dropdown arrow).
- Pictures: Shows a hand holding yellow flowers. The privacy setting is "Friends only" (indicated by a lock icon and a dropdown arrow).
- Nice Pix! Shows a raccoon's face. The privacy setting is "Friends only" (indicated by a lock icon and a dropdown arrow).

3. Applications, games and websites

Click on Edit your Settings

Game and application activity: recommended setting shown below.
Then click on the ringed buttons.

4. Information accessible through your friends

Click on the Edit Settings button

In the pop up window, clear all the check boxes and then click on Save Changes

5. Instant Personalisation

Click on the Edit Settings button

On this screen, clear the check box right at the bottom - you may have to scroll down to find it

6. Public search

Click on the Edit Settings button

On this screen, clear the check box right at the bottom

FaceBook Adverts

According to FaceBook “Facebook does not give third party applications or advertising networks the right to use your name or picture in adverts.” If this is allowed in the future, this setting will govern the usage of your information.” So why have a setting for it now? It is better not to ignore this one and it’s not with the other Privacy Settings.

In the top right hand corner click on Account and choose Accounts Settings from the drop-down menu to get the following screen and then click on the Facebook Adverts tab (ringed).

On the following screen there are two settings you need to change; one at the top and one at the bottom (you'll need to scroll down). Don't forget to click on the Save Changes button for each.

Application Settings

In the top right hand corner click on Account and choose Accounts Settings from the drop-down menu to get the following screen

Controlling these controls what everyone else can see from the applications that you use. Even Photos and Groups are applications. You may have more than you can see on the screen below.

For each one, click on Edit Settings, to get a pop-up something like this (each one will be slightly different).

Set the privacy that you need - Friends Only is the minimum I'd suggest, Only Me may be better for some of these. Only Me can only be found by clicking on Custom in the drop-down menu

Then click on Additional Permissions (ringed) to get the next pop-up

Here you can specify whether or not you want the application to publish content to your wall and what email notifications you want.

Email notification is a matter of preference and does not impact your privacy ... just your patience and your spam filter!

Publishing content to your wall means that those who are allowed to see you wall can see what you've been doing in an application. Think carefully about what you want people to see.

Click on OK to confirm any changes.

The End

Almost... I cannot guarantee they will not change again.
This is what the privacy screens look like on 19th June 2010!

You cannot choose your family, but you can choose your FaceBook friends. Casual acquaintances are less likely to be careful with your information than close friends. Maybe now is the time to drop a few?
